The androgen binding activity in the rat epididymis of weaning and adult animals was measured and found to be about five times higher than that of the cauda epididymidis. The activity of androgen binding in the different regions of the adult epididymis was similar, but that in the weaning animals was four times higher. A distinct seasonal pattern was observed for androgen binding. The activity increased significantly in spring, remained at the same level through midsummer and decreased sharply in the autumn. In conclusion, the androgen binding activity in the epididymis was related to the period of the year, being at its highest in spring. Why no one sees the Twitter mob isn't new, but it is now internet-wide and increasingly ferocious. Somewhere in the mountains of northeast Afghanistan, a 12-year-old girl is toiling in a field. When some Taliban fighters poke through the crops, she covers herself with her mother's burqa. That's when people in Washington, D.C., go on the internet and decide that the American military should bomb and kill her. They don't care that she's innocent or the Taliban's reputation (or how many people lose their limbs when they dig a hole). The right to die by mob rule isn't unique to politics and is equally destructive. Social media has made it easier to recruit mobs on the left and on the right. The idea is simple: Accuse someone of being a Nazi, and thousands of people will join the mob to stop the Nazis. Accuse someone of being a "hate preacher" ♦
