[Distribution and characteristics of hydatidiform mole derived from gamma-irradiated zygotes in mice]. To study the effects of gamma-irradiation of zygotes on the formation of hydatidiform mole and to obtain experiment materials for detection of trophoblasts in hydatidiform mole. The susceptibility of zygotes to gamma-irradiation was tested with irradiation dose of 125, 175 and 300 Gray (Gy) and the incidence of hydatidiform mole in the offspring derived from the irradiated zygotes was observed. There was no significant difference in the susceptibility of zygotes to irradiation between different dose groups. The incidence of molar pregnancy in the offspring from the irradiated zygotes was significantly higher in the dose group of 300 Gy than that in the other two dose groups

Jippie Jabber: crack serial key 1.0.0. DirectX 11 все работает обычно радиоперекода. Investigation of 25 hydroxyvitamin D levels in patients with rheumatoid arthritis and healthy controls. Rheumatoid arthritis (RA) is the commonest chronic autoimmune disease and has a large impact on individuals and society. Studies have demonstrated the importance of vitamin D for the immune system. Thus, vitamin D deficiency may contribute to the pathogenesis of RA. We aimed to investigate vitamin D levels in patients with RA and controls and to determine the correlation between 25 hydroxyvitamin D levels and the disease activity and clinical characteristics of patients with RA. Fifty-four RA patients and healthy controls were studied for serum 25 hydroxyvitamin D levels. Data were analyzed using the Mann-Whitney U test, Kruskal-Wallis test, Spearman correlation, and Bonferroni correction. No significant difference was observed in the 25 hydroxyvitamin D levels between the RA patients and healthy controls ($P = 0.84$), and in the subgroups of RA patients divided according to the disease duration and 25 hydroxyvitamin D levels. There was no correlation between the disease activity, rheumatoid factor levels, and both disease activity score and disease activity score 28 with 25 hydroxyvitamin D levels. Mean vitamin D levels were found to be lower in patients with RA who had higher disease activity and higher serum C-reactive protein levels. The present study was the first study of 25 hydroxyvitamin D levels in patients with RA, but it was not sufficient to establish a correlation between disease activity and 25 hydroxyvitamin D deficiency.
