Respiratory samples were collected from children hospitalized for acute respiratory infections and their management was reviewed retrospectively. RSV and influenza A H1N1 detection was done by real-time PCR. Epidemiological data were collected from medical records. From September 2012 to March 2015, a total of 120 patients were included, with an incidence rate of 0.5 per 10,000 children. The median age was 19 months, but 51.7% of patients were under 6 months. Most patients had a history of prematurity or chronic lung disease (n = 106, 89.3%). The median age at admission was 3 months, and 58.3% of children required supplemental oxygen. Clinical signs and symptoms included cough, fever, bronchiolitis, pneumonia, and apnea. The most common co-infection was influenza A H1N1.
