Majestic Trials is a turn based tactical roguelite dungeon crawler set in a post-apocalyptic world. Unlike most roguelites, the game revolves around tactical battles, where the player can pick from a variety of unique units that can be marshalled together for diverse and often wacky battle combos. Majestic Trials is an open-ended fantasy game that mixes turn-based tactical strategy with a fantasy setting. The game takes place in a completely randomly generated world with countless dungeons where you can explore and fight hordes of enemies. In Majestic Trials, players choose from a variety of unique units that they can combine and use for tactical battles. The game provides a unique experience with a strong theme and it has an RPG focus, but you'll find no stat-upgrades, leveling-up, grinding, no classes and no class-system. Players must decide which units to field, where to build them, and when to engage the enemy. Five mighty tribes inhabit Majestic Trials: The Red Wizards – Powerful magic wielding wizards that wield a variety of weapons and spells. The Blue Mages – Celestial heroes who wield a variety of weapons and spells that include summoning dragons. The Green Enchanters – Skillful wizards who wield a variety of weapons and spells. The Yellow Beastmasters – A group of tigers and dragons that can be sent to battle as a single unit, combining the power of both. The Yellow Warriors – Wild and powerful warriors that are well-suited for combat on the front lines. Of course there are also lots of enemies, that are meant to make the game a challenge, full of puzzles and trivia items. The strongest and most powerful units – the ones that help the player defeat the toughest challenges – take time to build, but at the end they're able to take on any opponent and do a lot of damage. Experience the campaign or challenge your friends or the enemy. Either way, there is no failure in Majestic Trials. Deep game mechanics Different units have different powers and abilities – like the Blue Mages, who can teleport from battlefield to battlefield at will, and the Black Cats, who can use magic to summon a swarm of dragons at the enemies to tear them apart. Depending on the terrain and the enemies, your strategy will have to adapt and evolve, all the time. Always keep in mind that there are numbers of enemy units with powers ranging from

, security and Pakistan Much as the German Foreign Office will be guardedly pleased that reports that Germany has voluntarily reduced its military presence in Pakistan have been confirmed, Germany's soldiers would doubtless prefer the stories that they were expected to leave Pakistan. There is no way the Germans can leave Pakistan now safely, while Saudi Arabia is at best indifferent and at worst furious about the loss of their Pakistani tormentors. Since Germany's Green Berets and naval engineers join CSAR assets of neighboring nations, it is their media. They are told to talk to all the neighbouring services, even though most if not all of them might hate each other. And so the German airforce's instructors have enjoyed a long relationship with the Abhaz airforce in Batumi. Training for the 3,000 trainers at the Air Force Academy has been completed and instructors are being trained in South Africa at the former RSA Defence Academy, the site of German bomber formations in the Second World War. But all this is weeklies: once again, perils of geography. A German Foreign Office spokesman was more honest: "After less than four years of German participation in the Saudi-led coalition against Houthi rebels in Yemen the German government and the German armed forces are prepared to increase efforts in line with the security situation in the region. At the moment this does not include the withdrawal of German soldiers from the country." The Americans are carrying out their own mission in Afghanistan. Afghanistan's ambassador to Germany couldn't have put it more succinctly: "The American politicians have colonised our country and we are hostages." The areas of the South China Sea where German warships are not likely to be patrolling are not exactly the best areas for the role of naval training. The main focus of their mission is in the eastern area of the South China Sea and the East China Sea, regions that Chinese drone technology well knows. The arrogance with which the Chinese conduct themselves is the first thing that one notices. Their latest artificial island in the middle of the South China Sea was either launched a few days before or during Ramadan. In the skies above the German-led NATO forces in Afghanistan, the aviation guards the western flank. The US aircraft carriers are nowhere to be seen, and the marine divisions on Afghanistan's coast are watching the Berliners. Coastal defence involves barely two
