Continuing the series of work from top indie composer Christopher Larkin, the soundtrack to TOHU is a tangible mix of playful tinkering, cosmic jazz, orchestral power and even a hint of '80s electronica.

In the game, the protagonist can find a variety of instruments with which to orchestrate these elemental musical forces on the world around them. Gameplay: TOHU is a single-screen side-scrolling action adventure featuring difficult platform puzzles. Platforms are converted to tight curves and the controls are easy to get the hang of. Characters: The Girl is the protagonist of TOHU and you can tell that she loves playing jazz. She can perform impressive feats of virtuosity and do her best to save the fish planets from becoming yet another lifeless world. Features: •DIFFICULTY Challenging platform puzzles to solve, timed to perfection. •FLASH-CREDIT CORE Up to four players can play the game together on a single device with full cross-platform support.Q: Templated and subclassed generic class methods not working? I'm trying to create a generic class, say, boost::function which is subclassed by, say, boost::function and I'm using templates to accomplish that. In particular, I've got the following class : class C { public: template static void call(F f) { f(0); } }; I've subclassed it: class D : public C { public: template static void call(F f) { f(1); } }; However, when calling the function call with a boost::function, the call(f) in D::call is not invoked and it is called in C::call. Is this expected? I'm currently on the C++0x standard but want to be sure. Thank you A: It seems to be a problem of the standard, not your code. What you are requesting is not allowed, as far as I can tell. (I've seen a similar problem discussed in another SO

DCS: A-10C Warthog - Super Low Altitude Dawn Patrol

Just for fun - this is my first concept of Dawn Patrol as a whole. This on was created without fully using the Advanced Flight Model nor any models. This is just a quick mockup, nothing much can really be done to this, just to show what I'm talking about. Hope you like it, my code is a mess, so I'm sure you'll see some mistakes in my lines here.

Synthesis, structure, and electrochemical behavior of sulfamato rare earth/sulfonate (RE(III)/SO(3)M) pentacations. The first sulfamato rare earth pentacations [RE(III)(SO(3)M)(H(2)O)4]NO(3), where M = 3-O-p-CF(3)-C(6)H(4)SO(3) and R = Dy, Er, Tm, Y, and Lu, have been synthesized by condensing SO(3)M and the corresponding rare earth amino acids (RE-amino acids). Isolation of the Er compound is complicated by the unusually strong affinity of this cation for the Y(III) complex, which results in a combination of five molecules of SO(3)M and two molecules of Y(III) in the mother liquor after crystallization of the two ions in tetrahydrofuran and cooling to -78 degrees C. The synthesis of (Er(2)H(3)O)(SO(3)M)(3)(NH(3))(3))(4) and (Lu(2)H(3)O)(SO(3)M)(3)(NH(3))(3))(4) (M = 3-O-p-CF(3)-C(6)H(4)SO(3)) was achieved by reacting the RE-amino acid with SO(3)M in a 1 : 2 molar ratio in 1 M ammonia. A study of the electrochemical behavior of these pentacations showed that the oxidation of the sulfonate ligands is significantly more reversible than that of the rare earth
