We can support you if you don't have access to a good internet service provider.Play (self) Safe with PC Support Last Updated: October 28, 2006 PC users: Play (self) Safe with PC Support Every PC user knows the value of running a PC Tune-Up to protect you from registry errors, excessive startup programs, and spyware; however, what can you do to protect your children from the perils of computers? Hallowes notes that parents need to be prepared with facts and tools that can help protect their children from the Internet. As a parent, you need to understand the implications of what is available online, how to supervise your children, and how to keep them safe. This will help you be your child's Internet advocate and protect them from ever-changing technology. Hallowes offers a couple of suggestions for introducing the Internet to children and yourself. Think about the computer as a tool for you, not a game or toy, suggests Hallows. The vast amount of material available online can
