All of your TIA-942 data will be stored online. The portal provides direct access to the latest NX, NR, EIR, WIR, and NRM data. It allows you to analyze, report on, and download this information directly from your portal console. A customer's network is working fine. System is secure. The hard drive is still performing at its best. Everything is fine. But the customer wants you to take a look at the network's performance.

You open the Network Monitor for Windows Vista. But you have a problem. You can't load the network monitor application because it crashes. The program is crashing because the network user account has insufficient privileges. The information in this article will explain why your computer can't load the Network Monitor, and how to fix the problem. To open the Network Monitor for Windows Vista, it must be executed from the Windows Vista operating system. You must run Network Monitor from the Windows Vista operating system and provide the network user account with full administrator privileges. The replacement NPI deactivation file includes information on NPI deactivation that occurred since the last replacement NPI file, such as NPI changes or NPI deactivation. Any changes or deactivations to the NPI file will be updated in the NPI deactivation file, and all new or changed NPIs are simply added to the end of the file. By downloading the replacement NPI deactivation file, a user may be able to gain a better understanding of the most current NPI deactivation information. CMS will also be monitoring the NPI deactivation file on a daily basis. This file will eventually contain all deactivation information for the month. The deactivation data will be available for download daily, starting on the first business day after the last day of the month, and the deactivation data will be available for download to a user until the NPI has been deactivated.
