Color management using Input, Output, and Black Wedges is now done via a ColorChecker Passport that you can download from the web app. It also lets you manually utilize the new Output Gamma slider control. The new Content-Aware Fill tool is no longer limited to only filling the initial blacked out area. Now, more and more, I have been using this technique. Photo editors in general are more and more popular these days. I believe it is because image editing software is so easy to learn and a lot of it is free. Photoshop, apart from being the most famous of the bunch, also has the most powerful tools.
