...Ambassador The Ambassador is the luxury flagship of the Kia range, and the most high-end model in the Kia lineup. It is positioned above the Sportage and above the Cee'd. At a distance, it is similar to the Kia Optima, but it is based on the Kia Sorrento platform. As the fourth and final of Kia's new line of passenger cars, the Ambassador was first unveiled at the Geneva Motor Show in March 2008, with production beginning in October of that year. The Ambassador was the first Kia product sold in the United States, with sales in the U.S. beginning in February 2009. The Ambassador is marketed in Europe, Japan, the Middle East, and Australasia. Selected models Ambassador is a nameplate that belongs to a series of four compact Kia vehicles, beginning with the 2003 Kia Amanti and expanding with the 2003 Kia Sportage (2001), 2005 Kia Sportage, and 2008 Kia Sorrento. The first and second generation Amanti (2001-2007) were based on the Ford Focus, but the third and fourth generation Amanti (2008-2012) are based on the Kia Sorrento platform. The Ambassador is Kia's flagship model and the model that is most expensive and most luxurious in the Kia lineup. The fourth generation Amanti shares a platform with the Kia Optima. It has a wheelbase of, a length of and is available in three different trim levels: GL, EX and SX. The GL is the base model and the SX is the top of the line. The EX trim is the mid-range model and comes with some features that are not available on the GL and SX. Some dealers offer a "Preferred" package for the Ambassador. The SX (sold in South Korea as "K-NX") is the top-of-the-line model and the only one that has leather seating and has a sunroof. It has an eight-way power driver seat that can also recline, two power seats, and a 60/40 split folding third row seat with recline, allowing the seatbacks to be raised up to 40 inches. Engines The Ambassador comes with a choice of two gasoline engines, each of which produces. The GL is available with the 2.4 liter four-cylinder engine, with 118 horsepower and 147 lb-ft of 2edc1e01e8
