

Wrong Turn 5: Bloodlines

After being locked up in the police station, Billy confesses to Angela that he owns the drugs and convinces her to let the others go. He stays at the police station while they are released. Meanwhile, Angela discovers Maynard is a fugitive wanted for murder and makes arrangements to turn him over to the proper authorities the next morning. Maynard promises her she won't live that long. Wrong Turn 5: Bloodlines is the fifth installment of the cult popular Wrong Turn series that originally starred Eliza Dushku (of Buffy fame) as the lead who fights her way out of a road trip gone wrong after a group of redneck cannibals attack and systematically murder her friends. With such horror pedigree to his name, it's no surprise Bradley joined another horror series with Wrong Turn 5: Bloodlines. Unfortunately for fans of the franchise, Wrong Turn 5: Bloodlines is typically considered one of the weaker entries despite his presence. The Pinhead joke proves Bradley at least had some hammy fun as Maynard, and the actor does manage to provide the uneven sequel with most of its best moments. Despite this, the character didn't return in the next sequel. Meanwhile, five friends: Billy (Simon Ginty), his girlfriend Cruz (Amy Lennox), Lita (Roxanne McKee), her boyfriend Gus (Paul Luebke) and Julian (Oliver Hoare) are on their way to Fairlake, West Virginia to celebrate the Mountain Man Festival on Halloween. Along the way, they almost run over Maynard, who attacks them. Billy, Gus and Julian attack Maynard out of self-defense, but are all apprehended along with Lita and Cruz by Sheriff Angela Carter (Camilla Arfwedson) and her partner Deputy Biggs (Kyle Redman Jones). While Sheriff Carter leaves to take them to the police station, the cannibals appear and kill Deputy Biggs. After being locked up in the police station, Billy confesses to Sheriff Carter that he owns his friends drugs, and he stays at the police station while they are released. Meanwhile, the cannibals drive to the city, killing a guard at the power plant, and shut down the town's electricity. The teens register at a motel to stay. On her way to visit Billy, Cruz is chased by Three-Finger, who kills her. After leaving the motel, Julian goes back to the police station, only to learn Cruz did not return.

CLICK HERE

Wrong Turn 5: Bloodlines

21f597057a