People often wonder what might be a good way of learning card tricks without any prior knowledge or spending hundreds of hours learning sleight of hand. Card tricks can be a great place to start so you can understand how magic works. Some are easier than others. I always think card tricks are a great place to start as you learn lots of transferable skills. Magic can be incredibly expensive when you buy professional props. However, for the beginner, they can be relatively cheap as most magicians start off with smaller and simple tricks.
